GENERAL DATA PROTECTION REGULATION 2018

In accordance with the Equality Act 2017, it is good practice to know the composition of people associated with appointed or voluntary police roles, so that policing can build an accurate workforce picture. Through this form we ask for your name so we can effectively manage the logistics for application and the assessment centre thereafter (if your application is successful). Your name, or any identifiable information, will not be shared with other organisations, and will not be used for any other purpose. We ask for your help to develop an understanding of workforce diversity so we can monitor any potential barriers faced. However, providing this information is voluntary.

The information you provide will be held by the Isle of Man Constabulary for the purposes outlined above, and in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation and other associated data protection legislation, as well as our duties under the Equality Act 2017. We will use the information collected from you to report on the composition of applicants. Your information will be used to form statistics and reports that are high level and will not identify you or any other individual. Your name, or any identifiable information will not be shared with any other organisation or used for any other purpose.

You information will only be held in an identifiable form for as long as is necessary by the Isle of Man Constabulary and in accordance with their retention schedule. You have certain rights under the GDPR and associated data protection laws regarding your personal data, which includes the right to access data held about yourself to ensure it is accurate, and to ask it is deleted or no longer processed. You also have the right to complain about the processing of your information if you are not happy about any aspect of the processing.

For more information about your rights, please see our full privacy notice on www.iompolice.im/
